

The Shakespeare Association of America

and

present

Loews Hotel
1200 Market Street
Philadelphia

Room Regency A

Free Workshop for Teachers

“Shakespeare Set Free”

Saturday, April 15, 1:00 – 3:30

Join Jeremy Ehrlich and Michael LoMonico of the Folger Shakespeare Library and Damian Bariexca of Hunterdon Central Regional High School to discover how Shakespeare’s language works and how performance can inspire both understanding and ownership of the text. The workshop will be a full afternoon of teaching and learning by doing. All participating teachers will experience a range of activities useful in teaching Shakespeare's plays to all types and ages of students. All will leave with ideas to refresh their own thinking about the plays and with practical strategies (and plenty of handouts) ready to go in the classroom.

For more information or to reserve a place in the workshop, please call 202-675-0395 or email educate@folger.edu.

Visit us online at www.folger.edu.